<sup>2</sup>1989 Population Census in Armenian SSR was conducted in exceptionally difficult condition which negatively affected not only the preparation and conduct, but the results of population census, leading to undercount of the population number. Due to the latter, the results of 1989 population census were not used as basis for population current enumeration and population current enumeration of the republic was continued to be conducted based on 1979 Population Census data.

<sup>3</sup> While making comparisons, it is necessary to take into account the fact that the calculation methodology of de facto and de jure population according to 2001 and 2011 censuses data differs from the previous ones, as the duration of person's being present and absent in temporary present and absent statuses, in contrast with less than 6 month period during USSR censuses, is defined less than one year (see "Conference of European Statisticians, Recommendations for the 2010 Censuses of Population and Housing" prepared in cooperation with the Statistical Office of the European Communities (EUROSTAT), New York and Geneva, 2006, Chapter III. "Population to be enumerated", paragraph 167 "Temporarily absent persons", 56 (Russian version), page 37 (English version)).
